Malaysia Palm Oil Expo 2023 (MAPEX) brings together an international congregation of both upstream and downstream palm oil companies and also its supporting industries gathered in the heart of the Malaysian Palm Oil industry in Sabah to showcase the latest development in the palm oil industry.

Currently ranked as the world's 2nd largest palm oil producer, this event will be supported by the local Malaysian Palm Oil Community ensuring major players in the industry would be represented at this event.

Overview of the Sabah Palm Oil Industry

Produces about 5 Million tonnes of Palm Oil in 2020 and accounted for 6% of total grand production, Sabah's palm oil industry relies on smallholders for 20-30% of output that contributes 1 billion ringgit ($238.7 million) to state coffers each year. Which according to officials, it also includes plantation spreads across 1.7 million hectares (4.2 million acres).

Sabah also launched the Jurisdictional Certification of Sustainable Palm Oil (JCSP0) initiative in 2015 with a target of producing only oil certified as ethical and green by 2025 that makes Sabah aims to be the world's first green palm oil state.

Sabah makes up 26 per cent of Malaysia's total planted oil palm areas and produced about 24 per cent of Malaysia's total output which makes Sabah, the first largest palm oil-producing state, with a total planted area exceeding 1.54 million ha. Sabah was not surprisingly the worst affected state in terms of a decline in palm oil output in terms of average Fresh Fruit Bunch (FFB) output during the decrease due to COVID cases reported at one time.

With the estimation of 53,000 smallholders in Sabah, Palm oil in Sabah provides between one third to half of their household income making Sabah as one of the main state where oil palm cultivation is still expanding.
